Runner's Ladies Orchestra

AT THE CHAUTAUQUA—WOMEN'S DAY

Runner's Ladies Orchestra comes to us to fill a very definite place on our chautauqua program. On other days we have music of the masters, presented in a masterly way, but on this day we have music that is good music, and yet music that is easy to listen to. In the two programs given by the Runner's Ladies Orchestra they play for you many of the better music numbers, and also some of the lighter things, they sing for you, seriously, and in fun, and there are readings and costumes numbers, and descriptive numbers and all worked in together so that there is not a dull minute and you cannot sleep if you want to. But you don't want to.

They offer something for everyone to enjoy, and their mission on our university program is to please the student body of every audience who do not have extensive musical education at the same time interesting the other five per cent. On their day, do not come expecting to get a course in musical instruction in one day. It can't be done. But come prepared to enjoy yourself immensely and get ready to laugh a little, and perhaps cry a little. For this is a different kind of orchestra than you have heard in the past, and pleasantly different. Runner's Ladies Orchestra is an ENTERTAINMENT orchestra.

U. S. SOLDIERS MAY WORK A FARM ON THE MARSH

Stevens Point Journal: Bradley Polytechnic Institute of Peoria, Ill., thru W. W. Hammond has offered to donate the use of lands near Coddington in the Iowa Vista drainage district for a food emergency camp, stipulating that root crops be raised. This offer was made to the National Council of Defense. Thru this body the matter was referred to the State Defense Council and thru the latter organization to the County Council for National Defense.

Friday a committee from the county council consisting of W. E. Alwell, representing the Bradley Polytechnic Institute, J. M. Coyner, county farm agent, and G. L. Park, chairman, made a trip to the land to determine whether or not the plan for a soldiers' food emergency camp was feasible. The site decided upon is being the best for the purpose of raising beets, turnips, carrots, cabbages and other root crops was located just south of Coddington. This plot is high ground and is easily accessible thru Coddington. It is thought the land would make an ideal military food camp. F. M. Orlitz, manager of the local land of the institute, has a fine stand of carrots and cabbages on the contemplated site.

Who's nothing definitely has been decided upon other than the Institute of the land to the government, yet it is thought that in all probability the offer will be accepted in case such allotments of soldiers are made for the purpose of intensive agriculture. The land, for the most part, has been under cultivation at one time or other, and would be easily adapted to raising root vegetables. The action of the committee will be to this effect.

The remains were taken to Almond for burial. The parents have the sympathy of the community in their loss.

MARSHFIELD WILL HAVE MOTOR RACES

Big Motor Race Meet Scheduled for July 4th, at Marshfield, Wis.

A championship automobile race meet, run on a scale never before attempted in this vicinity, will take place at Marshfield Fair Grounds Wednesday, July 4th. When the motor race meets the first batch of cars away, there will be inaugurated a professional automobile race meet which promises to overshadow any amateur race held in this section of the country, both from the standpoint of the competition promised by the large and classy list of drivers and the speed anticipated for the special racing.

Seven events ranging from three to twenty miles in length will bring together a score of professional drivers and their specially built cars, including some of the best dirt track pilots and their equally prominent speed creations on Wednesday afternoon, July 4th.

Program is Varied. Races of every description are included in the program. There will be classes for light cars, classes for big cars, and free-for-all events in which all may enter.

The contest board isn't relying on natural rivalry to make drivers go their best, but has put up $2,000 in purses for the best drivers.

A sanction has been granted by the International Motor Council Association under which the racing will run. Members of the Marshfield Board of Commerce will have full charge at the Fair Grounds and all the members are donating their services for the race.

A big celebration in connection with the auto races will be held in Marshfield. Celebration will start at nine o'clock in the morning and continue until twelve o'clock in the evening. The big feature, the auto races and the fake circus and other big free acts which will be given in the afternoon. The race will be held in Marshfield, is for the purpose of raising funds for the Red Cross. The board is going to considerable expense and with sunny skies, a large attendance is expected from all the surrounding towns. Railroads will run special trains.

RELIEF SERVICE COMMITTEE

National Society Daughters of the American Revolution

The Daughters of the American Revolution, that great national organization of patriotic women whose members, both military and civil, helped to found the American National War, offered their services to the United States government as auxiliary in time of war, and are now listing their talents and resources.

Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey, president general, has appointed a national committee consisting of Mrs. M. L. Scott, honorary president general, as chairman, Mrs. A. L. Harrison, wife of the postmaster general, vice chairman and secretary, Mrs. James B. Grant, vice president general, and Mrs. J. W. Venable, vice president general. The committee is in charge of publicity of War Relief Service Committee.

The object of the committee is to give every D. A. R. the opportunity to pledge her services to the war effort. The National Society is divided into six districts corresponding in their territorial limits to those established by the War Department in the geographical organization of its own department, and each district has a district chairman.

Registration blanks have been sent every member of the National Society listing her for active service. The blanks cover the following services: Sewing, knitting, mending, nursing, preparation of surgical supplies, general supply room service, packing, shipping, laundry, making, cooking, making jellies, fruit jellies, drying fruit, storing and canning vegetables, cooking in hospital, kitchen or camp, waiting on table, driving and repairing motor cars, training in emergency, and other services. Agricultural and professional life, planting of gardens, planting unused ground and parks in potatoes, influencing farmers to plant more corn and wheat, saving old papers, tin cans and rubbers to sell, the money to be given War Relief Service, fostering public display of the flag from all buildings, public and private, and other services.

The War Relief Service Committee has interviewed a committee from the Council of National Defense, and in conversation with the government, to learn how the Daughters can give their services where most needed.

A letter from Hon. Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture, telling how women may assist in the work of his department, a letter from M. J. Jussorund, French ambassador to the United States, in answer to one sent by the committee explaining how women can show their sympathy to France by helping care for the French orphans, a letter from the Navy League giving full details regarding the kind of garments which are most acceptable for our soldiers, have all been received and the Daughters are serving under the directions contained in them. These letters and many other articles of interest to all women will appear from time to time in this paper regarding the work of this patriotic organization of women.

DIES OF RARE ALIMENT

Pittsfield Record: Clifford McWolcott, son of Martin McWolcott, aged 11, died of a rare aliment.

The boy died at the Marshfield hospital Saturday morning of suppurative meningitis caused by osteomyelitis of the skull.

The boy was one of the young men who died in the war. There are not ten doctors in Wisconsin who have come across it in their practice. With the wide experience of the two doctors who handled the case at the Marshfield hospital, Dr. Mason and Dr. Doege, neither had ever come in contact with it before. Both admit to having read of similar cases, and according to the report of this city, who had the case in hand previous to the removal of the young man to Marshfield, it is something that few physicians in a lifetime would have seen.

About two weeks previous to death the young man was brought to Pittsfield suffering with a severe headache which had been constant for many days. The boy was taken to the hospital where he was treated by the staff of the hospital. The boy was taken to the hospital where he was treated by the staff of the hospital.

MILITARY AGE IS AGAINST WORKERS

New York, June 26—Men of military age are being discriminated against by employers since the enactment of the selective draft and it is becoming increasingly difficult for them to obtain employment.

Help wanted advertisements in the great daily papers show this, the greatest majority calling for men "over 21" and otherwise indicating that preference will be given to the men not subject to the nation's call. The injustice and disloyalty of this was shown by Dr. Schuyler S. Wheeler, past president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, who is head of a firm employing several thousand workmen.

"Employers only willing to hire men over the military age," he said, "are discriminating against the men who are the backbone of the nation's industry. In addition, they are short-sighted, as only about one in twenty of the ten million men registered will be called. Refusal to employ men between the ages of 21 and 31 penalizes the very class on which the future of the nation depends. These men are the fathers of the coming generation."

"Men should be given employment on the same basis as before the war. If a man is called from his work to take arms to help 'make the world safe for democracy' the employer should be proud to have one of his men go to the front and should wish him God-speed. The thought that his work may have to be done by a new man should never occur—there are millions who will do it."

"If employers are not careful they will make it a disgrace for a young man to be called to the colors. Instead, there should be rivalry between the shops and factories as to which sends the most men to the front, for only the best are wanted and the fittest to work are the fittest to fight. Give the young men their chance. The tool they need is registered—now let the employers take their chance and give them work!"

The movement to employ men regardless of their liability to military service was started at the plant of the Crocker-Wheeler Co., electrical machinery manufacturers of Amper, N. J., and is being adopted by many of the other large concerns.

AFTER THE HOBBO

If the intention of some of the members of the legislature is carried out the hoboes of Wisconsin will get out of the state in a hurry.

The state council of defense has issued orders to the effect that all Wisconsin hoboes be put to work, and that no one should feed them until they have been caught working.

In a conference last week with the chiefs of police of fourteen cities, it was decided to wage a strenuous war on tramps and all classes of idlers within the state's limits. The people of the state are asked not to feed tramps and the police of the cities represented have guaranteed to do the rest. A farm, on which there will be plenty of hard work, is to be the particular rest cure for this class of dwellers.

CHRISTOPHERSON-BILLS

Miss Lillian Grace Christopherson and Mr. S. Chester Bills, both of City Point, were married at the Methodist church by Rev. C. C. Becker on Wednesday.

The bride is a teacher by profession and is one of the graduates of the Wood County Normal, and has taught since her graduation in 1911. She is a most capable young lady, and the groom is one of the rising young farmers out near City Point.

Three Winnebago Indians from Wittenberg by the names of John Dick, Eli Whitelings and Frank Elk were arrested on Monday for being drunk. They were brought before one of the local justices on Tuesday and each of the parties was fined one dollar and costs and sentenced to five days in jail.

It was learned that a white man by the name of Anton Voelcke had been arrested in this city at one o'clock on the night of June 22nd and that he was being held in the city jail for his misdemeanor. Voelcke has been in the city for some time and has been in the city for some time and has been in the city for some time.

POTATO DRYING PLANT FOR RHINELANDER

Rhinelander New North: Through the establishment in this city of a government potato-drying plant, the only one of its kind in the United States, Rhinelander is again about to come in for nationwide attention.

The plant is now situated in Arlington, Va., but will soon be moved to this city, according to the assurance given by the Rhinelander Advanced Association by Dr. H. B. Horton who has been acting for the government in seeking a new location for the plant.

The plant at Arlington is valued at about $50,000 and will be moved to this city. A company with $5,000 capital has been organized to conduct the business.

The drying of potatoes is almost unknown here in the United States, while in Germany it is a well established, profitable business.

In Europe potato flour is used regularly, and special cook books are published for its utilization in all kinds of bakery goods. The immigrants from northern Europe accustomed to the use of potato flour, have created a market for that commodity in this country. In 1913, the last year for which a report was available, showed 16,718,488 pounds of potato flour and starch imported. The war cut off the supply, but the demand still exists and there is an excellent chance to make a big money business turning potato flour in this country from the unsalable potatoes and the culls, now almost a total loss.

Potato flakes can be turned almost instantaneously into the most delicious of the great American National Dish, and when put up in neat and attractive cartons, sold at the grocery, the flakes certainly will find a ready market.

In mining and logging camps, where fresh potatoes are scarce, flakes would fill a long felt want. Flakes would also be welcomed by the busy housewife in large cities. Bringing to the city the best of the great American National Dish, which has been the slogan for other countries, would be appreciated, and accepted to save the trouble of boiling and mashing of potatoes.

But where potato flakes will become indispensable, once introduced, will be in the army and navy, and the flitting out of camping parties. Other vegetables can be canned, but the canning of potatoes has not proved to be a success. Dried potatoes can be kept almost indefinitely, and besides this, another marked advantage of the drying process is that it reduces the weight of the potato about three-fourths, and this permits the shipping of the potatoes in dried form great distances without the danger of deterioration.

DISREGARD NOTICES

Highway Commissioner Amundson reports that there is a disposition on the part of some people to disregard notices posted by the highway commissioner on roads that are in course of construction, and makes the statement that it will be better for all concerned if these notices are complied with.

The law in regard to traveling over a state road when the county highway commissioner has posted notice to keep off, is very severe and in the last few years the highway commissioner has been so lenient with the public that he has caused the arrest of only one man during all this time, until the other day when on inspecting the concrete pavement by the highway commissioner, he discovered tracks of some kind of vehicle having driven along on top of the concrete pavement about three days after it was built. The arrest of the offender followed.

The offense of going thru a road with the proper signs posted is a misdemeanor and the penalty is not to exceed $100 for each offense, and the cost of any damage done by any one passing thru or over any highway construction or bridge while so closed may also be paid by the offender.

SOLVES SUBMARINE PROBLEM

The following item is taken from the Gettysburg, S. D. News, and the Ralph Bagby mentioned is a brother of Roy Bagby of this city.

"Ralph Bagby, a Sully county genius has a plan for the control of submarines, or rather to stop their operations, and has sent his ideas to the navy department at Washington, his idea being to attach a float magnet in the field in which the submarine works, each floating magnet having a long trailing rope attached, which will foul the propeller and thus prevent the submarine from moving forward. He claims a trial on a motor boat shows the plan will work."

WILL OCCUPY NEW QUARTERS

The Road Construction company expects to move into the Kandy Mfg. company building within a couple of three weeks, it being necessary to make some changes before the move is made.

As they will have more room in the new place than is required by their work, it is probable that the Press-Herald company will also occupy a part of the building.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Peerenboom and G. D. Fritzinger made a trip to Waupun Sunday spending the day with Mr. Fritzinger who is in the hospital in that city.

George, the fifteen-year-old son of the family, was badly burned by the bolt of lightning and was unconscious for several hours. The lightning apparently passed down his body, as his chest and back and left arm were severely burned. The skin being destroyed on fully a third of his body. However, he was given surgery and care as soon as possible, and it is expected that he will fully recover. Another of the children was injured, but not so serious.

The man who visited the place after the accident, stated that the house appeared as if a bomb had been exploded in the building. Bricks from the chimney were hurled a distance of a hundred feet or more, and it seemed a miracle that the entire family escaped death.

Mr. Sager has run in hard luck for several years past, having been severely injured by a fall from his barn, several years ago, since which time he has been laid up more or less, and has had several other misfortunes that has set him back.

The Tomahawk Leader has recently installed a linotype machine in the office and the improvement in the appearance of that paper is truly wonderful. No doubt the patrons of the paper appreciate the change, and it is safe to say that those operating the paper appreciate it more than any body else.

DEATH OF JOHN RUESS
John Rueess, one of the most honorable and highly respected residents of Wood County, was accidentally hurt
in a runaway on Wednesday, June 20th, and died shortly after the accident. He was a man of sterling qualities, a kind neighbor, loyal friend and a loving father. He was born in Meekling, Germany 74 years ago.
He lived on the farm on which he died for the past 42 years.
Surviving are his wife and seven children, John, Henry, Lena and Anna of Sigel, Fred of Long Lake, Herman and Mrs. Minnie Carmody of Utica, N. Y.
The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Anderson of Vesper.
The choir rendered the solo most beautiful. The body was laid to rest in the family plot at Seneca Corners. The pall bearers were Messrs.
L. Koch, R. Coleman, J. Wassow, H.
Pagel, H. Hockman and A. Bothke.
The floral offerings were many and beautiful, among them was a pillow marked "Father," H. D. Rueess of Tenn. N. Y. were here to attend the funeral as were also Miss Lena Rueess
and Mrs. Minnie Carmody of Utica,
New York.

RED CROSS RECEIPTS
Those in charge of the Red Cross
collections report that the sum collected up to the present time, and heard from, is $14,000. No definite figures are being given out at the present time, as there are several towns in this district that have not been heard from. It is expected that the complete report will be in within a few days.
While the southern end of Wood
county was reported for this purpose,
it is conceded by those who have taken the trouble to look the matter
up that this is more than our share.
The total population, according to the last census, is only about 16,500,
and as the amount wanted is only about $1 per capita, $25,000 would be considerably over and above our share. There is no doubt, but what the south end of Wood county will donate the full amount, as there are several towns that have gone over the amount.

BURMEISTER-RICKMAN
Miss Nellie Burmeister and Mr.
Frank Rickman, both of this city,
were married on Wednesday afternoon at the east side Lutheran church, Rev. Pautz officiating. The young couple were accompanied by Misses Esther Burmeister and Stella Rickman and Messrs. Frank Manske and Victor Bornick as bridesmaids
and groomsmen.
After the ceremony the bride and groom and a number of invited friends went to the home of the bride's parents on Fifth street where a wedding supper was served, there being eighty in attendance. The newlyweds left for their home at 10 o'clock, and the same evening they will be making their home in this city.
Both of the contracting parties are favorably known in the city and are considered our popular young people.
The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burmeister, old residents of this section, and is a young lady who has many friends among the young people of the city, while the groom is one of our rising young men who has the confidence of all who know him. The Tribune extends the heartiest of congratulations.

RETURNS TO WORK
Dr. W. M. Ruckle, who has been in Chicago and Port Sherman during the past ten days, returned home on Monday. While away the doctor attended the national Skat congress,
the only other one from this city being Oscar Malmgren, who was neither of the gentlemen have said anything about it, it is taken for granted that they did not drag down the first prize, altho the returns are not in yet, and it will be several days before they receive their prizes.

SURPRISED THEIR FRIEND
Mrs. Ernest Knipfle was the victim of a very pleasant surprise on Tuesday evening or about twenty-five friends assembled at her home
without any previous notice and proceeded to take possession of her home for the evening. The party was a social manner and a lunch was served at midnight, and the guests departed
with the wish that their hostsess might live to celebrate many more birthdays.

The barn dance at the Sigel Yoke place on well attended in spite of the muddy roads and rainy weather.
All who were present report a very good time.

folks.
Ella and Harvey Swarlock are visiting relatives here.
The Misses Evelyn Schuetz and Stella Komack visited with Miss Anna Stern and also took in the dance at Yoke's.
Mrs. Frank Mraz and daughter El-lora of Vesper spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. M. Adam.
Mr. and Mrs. M. Adam and daughters Ella and Barbara, spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. John Swartz.
The Misses Agnes and Ella Koudson of Grand Rapids spent Sunday at the Jos. Patrick home.
The Misses Ella Swarlock and Pauline Adam spent Sunday with Miss Florence Mollet at Vesper.
Mr. and Mrs. James Mroz and daughter Viola spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Benish.
The young ladies Dorcas society of the Swedish Bethania church of Sigel
will hold a sale next Saturday, January, at the Sigel Yoke place.
They will have a fine selection of hand work, also a big supply of both fancy and kitchen aprons. The money will go toward the benefit of the Red Cross.

LEAVES OF THE EUCALYPTUS

Eucalyptus are evergreens which shed their bark, but not their leaves. But they are not shade trees. The leaves are placed in inclined rather than in horizontal position, and the passage of light is but little obstructed. For this reason smaller trees and bushes and grass grow underneath, and the woods in places assume the appearance of a jungle from which arise the towering shafts of trees. It is interesting to note that primitive types of eucalyptus as well as the young of more modern types have horizontal leaves, pointing to a time in the geologic past when the climate was more congenial and no precautions to conserve moisture need be taken.—National Geographic Magazine.

NEWS NOTES FROM WISCONSIN PLACES

Mosinee Times: A very sad accident occurred this morning about 10 o'clock on the Wausau road when the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Klatt of the town of Kronenwetter, met almost instant death. The little fellow, in company with his brother, came out of the yard, which faces directly on the highway, and started to walk along the side of the road on the grass, according to versions of the accident given by witnesses. As they were walking, they were approaching in his car and had signalled for the road, in order to pass the Klatt car. The Klatt car was moving at a very slow rate as he came abreast of the boys. It seems that the little fellow, by some sudden impulse, undertook to cross the road directly in front of the Klatt car. He was struck by the left front wheel, the Klatt car passing directly over his body. The injured child, and his mother, was at once hurried to a doctor, but the spark of life fled before the end of the journey was reached. From inquiries made by our reporter it appears to have been one of those accidents that are ordained by fate and said as the results are, was unavoidable. Mr. and Mrs. Klatt have the sympathy of all their friends and acquaintances in their sudden bereavement and great loss.

Rhineland New North: By a unanimous vote the city council passed a resolution at a special meeting last night to give the Stevens Lumber company a bonus of $15,000 to be used toward the rebuilding of the company's saw mill plant in this city. It is ascertained from officials of the Stevens Lumber company that the work on the erection of the new mill will be started without delay. That the plant will be ready for operation in the early fall is probable. The council granted the $15,000 to the company on the recommendation of the investigating committee named for that purpose, consisting of Mayor Clark, City Attorney Reeves, Aldermen Wright, Gilligan and Skubal. Upon the action of the council the Stevens Lumber company and the Mason-Donaldson Lumber company, with which concern the former company has a sawing contract, will continue to be numbered among the business interests of Rhineland.

Oconto Enterprise: Rudolph Kosmar, well known resident of Oconto, was found dead at 10:10 o'clock this morning about three-quarters of a mile north of the C. M. & St. Paul depot with a bullet wound in his breast. Mr. Kosmar left home at about six o'clock this morning, taking his family to the city. He was found with him. He told his family that he intended going out to hunt some of the wild geese that had been seen north of the village. At about 10 o'clock Frank Contraband, who happened to be in that vicinity, was attracted by the barking of the dogs and upon investigation found the body of Mr. Kosmar lying face downward, just a few feet beyond a fence, with a bullet wound in his breast. The coroner's jury, after hearing the testimony, rendered a verdict of accidental death. It is believed that the Kosmar, while crawling through the fence, accidentally discharged his gun. The gun was lying on the ground near the right side of the body. The bullet entered the breast, the center and passed out of the left side.

On Wednesday morning at St. Lawrence Catholic church was solemnized the marriage of Miss Ann Cepros of this city and Mr. Constantine Kowalski of Milwaukee, Rev. Cieslow performing the ceremony. They were attended by Miss Helen Kowalski and Celia Kubisiak as bridesmaids and Messrs. John Kologoski and Mike Kowalski as groomsmen, while Miss Irene Cepros was maid of honor. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner and reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Cepros, parents of the bride, and the young couple left the same day for Milwaukee, where they will make their future home. This young couple takes with them the best wishes of a host of friends in this city, and the Tribune wishes with these in extending congratulations.

JIM AND THE GOAT

The boys say (we do not know whether it is true or not) that one day recently the expressman drove up to the harbor shop of Doyle & Larrabee and wanted to know if Jim would want him to do with the goat he had on the rig. Jim, so the boys say, went up the stairs three steps at a time, and peered into the back of the express wagon, where he saw, confined in a crate, a three white-billy goat of patriarchal appearance, peering at him with a sort of a bold, defiant aspect that made the cold chills run down Jim's back. Now, Jim has no more use for a goat than most of us have for a white elephant, and the one idea that sprang uppermost in his mind when he saw the animal, was to find some sucker that would take it off his hands without any bonus or unnecessary pay. He arranged up several friends and interviewed them on the subject of goats, but the market was excessively weak and the demand for Billies was practically nil, and he began to despair. He then turned to the subject of a goat whether he would or no. With him at twenty dollars a pair and old newspapers selling for fifty cents a hundred, it did not look very encouraging for Mr. Goat, and the way Jim exhibited the virtues of that goat to those who might possibly want a first class animal of this sort, was calculated to put a life insurance agent to shame. But it was no use, and when Jim wheeled his weary way homeward that evening he was a man broken in spirit with little in life to look forward to. He was the one man in the city of Grand Rapids who owned a goat, and was the man who wanted one the least. Imagine his surprise when he arrived home to find that the goat was not there, but that the whole matter was a hoax. The goat was passing through town by express, and the boys say that the whole thing was fixed up by Cliff Bittel, who bribed the expressman to stop at the shop and give Jim the necessary papers to start the bill rolling.

I am satisfied in every way and am glad to testify to your ability and skill in treating these cases. You may refer anyone afflicted in a similar way to me.

NEWS NOTES FROM
WISCONSIN PLACES

Mosinee Times: A very sad accident occurred this forenoon about ten o'clock on the Wausau road when the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Klatt of the town of Kronen-wetter, met almost instant death.
The little fellow, in company with his brother, came out of the yard, which faced directly off the highway, and started to walk along the side of the road on the grass, according to versions of the accident given by witnesses. Y. Atherton of Wausau, was approaching in his car and had signaled for the road, in order to pass
the ruder beer team driven by Fred Balthazar. His car was moving at a very slow rate as he came abreast of the boys. It seems that the little fellow, by some sudden impulse undertook to cross the road directly in front of the machine. He was struck by the left front wheel, the machine passing partially over his body. The injured child, and its mother, was at once hurried to a doctor, but the spark of life fled before the aid of the journey was reached. From inquiries made by our reporter it appears to have been one of those accidents that are ordained by fate and sad as the results are, was unavoidable. Mr. and Mrs. Klatt have the sympathy of all their friends and acquaintances in their sudden bereavement and great loss.

Rhineland New North: By a unanimous vote the city council passed a resolution at a special meeting Friday night to give the Stevens Lumber company a bonus of $15,000
to be used toward the rebuilding of the city. It is ascertained from officials of the Stevens Lumber company that work on the erection of the new building is well advanced. That the plan will be ready for operation in the early fall is probable. The council granted the $15,000 to the company on the recommendation of the investigating committee named for that purpose, consisting of Mayor
Clark, City Attorney Reeves, Aldermen Wright, Gilligan and Suburban Light. The council of the city Stevens Lumber company and the Mason-Donaldson Lumber company,
with which concern the former company has a contract, will constitute to be numbered among the business interests of Rhineland.

Oconto Enterprise: Rudolph Kos-
nar, well known resident of Lena,
was found dead at 10:10 o'clock this morning about three-quarters of a mile north of the C. M. & St. Paul depot with a bullet wound in his breast. Mr. Kosnar, who had been about six o'clock this morning, taking his Martin 38-55 rifle and two dogs with him. He told his family that he intended going out to the woods to hunt. He was last seen about 10 o'clock. At about 10 o'clock Frank Courchaine, who happened to be in that vicinity, was attracted by the barking of the dog.
The coroner's jury after hearing the testimony rendered a verdict of accidental death. It is believed that Mr.
Kosnar, while crawling thru the fence, accidentally discharged his gun. The bullet entered the breast at the center and passed out of the left side.

On Wednesday morning at St.
Laurence Catholic church was solemnized the marriage of Miss Anna Cepress of this city and Mr. Constance Kowalski of Milwaukee. Rev. Ciszew-ski performing the ceremony. They were attended by Miss Helen Kowalski and Celia Kubisiak as bridesmaids and Messrs. John Kologoski and Mike Kowalski as groomsmen.
While Miss Irene Cepress was maid of honor. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner and reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
Matt Cepress, parents of the bride,
and the young couple left the same make their future home. This young couple takes with them the best wishes of a host of friends in this city, and the Tribune wishes with

JIM AND THE GOAT

The boys say (we do not know whether it is true or not) that one day recently the expressman drove up to the barber shop of Bogie & Lar-mie and wanted to know of Jim what he had on the rig. Jim, so the boys say, went up the stairs three steps at a time, and peered into the back of the express wagon, where he saw confined in a cage, a large white goat of patriarchal appearance, peering at him with a sort of belligerent aspect that made the children run down Jim's back. Now Jim has no more use for a goat than most of us have for a white elephant, and the one idea that sprang uppermost in his mind when he saw the animal, was to find some sucker that would take it off his hands without any bonus or unnecessary parley. He rang up several friends and interviewed them on the subject of goats, but the market was excessively weak and the demand for Billies was practically nil, and it began to dawn upon Jim that he was going to have a goat whether he would or no. When at last he had decided to take the goat, he called on the boys and old newspapers selling for fifty cents a hundred, it did not look very encouraging for Mr. Goat, and the way to those who might possibly want a first class animal of this sort, was calculated to put a life insurance agent to shame. But it was no use,
and when Jim wended his weary way homeward that evening he was a man broken in spirit with little in him to look forward to. He was the one man in the city of Grand Rapids
who owned a goat, and was the man who wanted one the least. Imagine his surprise when he arrived home to find that there was no goat there and that the whole matter was a hoax.
The goat was passing thru town by express, and the boys say that the whole thing was fixed up by Cliff Bluet, who at the shop and gave Jim
the necessary palaver to start the ball rolling.

which occurred in Milwaukee at 8 o'clock last evening. Mr. Lynch has been sick for some time past and had gone to the sanitarium in Milwaukee for treatment, but the physicians there found that it was impossible to do anything for him and the result was that he has gradually grown worse until he passed away last evening. The remains will arrive in this city tomorrow morning and will be taken to the Witter Hotel and the funeral will be held Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock from St. Peter dents of Grand Rapids and Wood county, and although he left here several years ago to make his home in Milwaukee, he has since kept in touch with his friends here and has been considered one of us. Mr. Lynch came to this county when a young man and spent several years in teaching school, and from this was elected superintendent, a position which he held for some time. He afterward engaged in lumbering opera-

death will be truly mourned by a large circle of friends.

years ago. Mr. Lynch was a man about 65 years of age.

Are You Lazy?—Then Take Anti-Lazy Serum and Become Energetic

THE MOTHER OF THIS CHILD HAD GIVEN BIRTH PREVIOUSLY TO TWO OTHER CHILDREN, ONE OF WHICH WAS DEAD AT BIRTH, AND THE OTHER OF WHICH LIVED ONLY A FEW WEEKS. IN EACH CASE THE MOTHER'S CONDITION WAS SERIOUS. THE LAST BABY WAS BORN WITHOUT MUCH PAIN TO THE MOTHER, AND HER CONDITION BEFORE THE BIRTH WAS FREE FROM ALL OF THE SICKNESS USUALLY ATTENDING SUCH A CONDITION.

Chicago physician achieves some amazing results by treating patient with patient's own blood which has been made into a vaccine

PHYSICIANS and surgeons from the four corners of the globe have experimented with cuts, dogs and monkeys to find a serum for appendicitis, infantile paralysis, diphtheria and what not. But the latest serum is the "Anti-Lazy Serum," which has been demonstrated to have splendid and efficient action on both body and mind.

This is the discovery of Dr. L. D. Rogers, formerly surgeon at Cook County Hospital, Chicago, 20 years senior professor of surgery in the National Emergency Hospital, and first president of the American Cancer Research Society.

Technically this new treatment is known as auto-hemotherapy, which means treating your blood with your own blood. The process first became generally known last year, when Doctor Rogers read a paper before the Chicago Society of Medical Research. He reported to the society the results of his six years of observations treating patients with a serum made with their own blood as a base.

The doctor treated all classes of patients whose troubles were apparently due to faulty blood and his results in general were declared to be remarkable. In the ten months that have elapsed since the auto-hemotherapy treatment was made public the serum has become recognized as a discovery as important as the achievement of Dr. Alexis Carrel, who was the first to transplant human organs.

Auto-hemotherapy is especially remarkable because of its simplicity. Briefly, Doctor Rogers' treatment consists in taking five drops of blood, or some multiple of five, from a vein and putting it into 10 times as much sterilized, distilled water. After incubating it at fever heat for 24 hours, further dilutions are made according to the needs of the patient, which can be determined only by a physician skilled in its use.

When ready for injecting, the serum is colorless, odorless and tasteless. Doctor Rogers is also authority for the statement that he has not been able to find any physiological condition sufficiently skilled to determine its contents.

Twenty to thirty drops of the serum or solution thus prepared are injected into a vein or under the skin. It may also be given by mouth, but not with as certain results.

There seems to be no limit to the number of diseases and complaints for which this new treatment is beneficial. It is easier to enumerate those conditions for which it is not applicable. "Troubles mechanical, organic, or of acute bacteriological origin, and those clearly recognized as incurable, are not expected to be benefited by it, although a few of these appear to yield."

The solution has been named the "Anti-Lazy Serum" because it primarily has the energizing qualities that do away with nervous fatigue, while greatly increasing physical and mental endurance.

To illustrate: The fourth day after treatment a woman walked ten miles and was not as tired as she had been previously after walking only half a mile.

Another case in point was that of a man generally considered to be the laziest person in his community. He drank about 20 "whiskies" a day, but after the administration of the serum he began to do regular hard manual labor. This was about the first real work he had done for six years.

His rheumatic pains left him, he needed a cane no longer, his appetite returned, insomnia was replaced by sound, refreshing sleep, his weight increased five pounds, and his general appearance changed from that of a "bum" to that of a clean, wholesome, bright and honest workman. Previously, too, he had suffered from loss of memory, but after taking the serum he could recall the names of many old acquaintances whom he could not remember before taking the treatment.

Remarkable results have been obtained when the serum was administered to expectant mothers, and it is in this field that Doctor Rogers expects the greatest good to be accomplished through the auto-hemotherapy treatment. It is his belief that if the treatment comes into general use the birth of physical and mental defects will be reduced 90 per cent, and infant mortality from congenital weakness, the greatest cause of death among children, will be wiped out.

Although Doctor Rogers and his associates have treated a large number of expectant mothers with the new serum there has yet to be reported a case in which relief was not obtained from those troublesome complaints so common during this period. Furthermore, in a general survey of mothers who had previously borne children, the average duration of suffering with the birth of the serum baby was three hours, while with the former children without serum the average was 11 hours. Still more wonderful and more important is the fact that children whose mothers had treatment a few months before their birth are stronger, healthier, mentally and physically, than other children of the same family who did not have the benefit of this auto-hemotherapy treatment. There has not been reported a death among the "serum" babies, although some are now five years old.

It was while spending the winter of 1900-1901 in Paris and London that Doctor Rogers became interested in the study of cancer. He gave a great deal of his time watching some of England's famous physicians hard at work in the Imperial Cancer Research Laboratory, the Middlesex Hospital Cancer Laboratory, and the laboratory presided over by Sir A. E. Wright, who originated the idea of vaccination against typhoid. He visited the Institute in Paris, and there saw monkeys inoculated with the products of infantile paralysis. Naturally he became greatly enthused over the possibilities of serum treatment, and he came home with the determination to make an attempt to discover a serum to cure cancer, diabetes, goiter and pernicious anemia, the most difficult chronic disease to fight. He has been successful in treating some remarkable cases of goiter without resorting to an operation. Many cures of diabetes have been reported, and encouraging results have been obtained in pernicious anemia.

Doctor Rogers' treatment of the blood seems to bring out remarkable energizing qualities. Just as the latent energy residing in water may be converted by application of heat into an expansive vapor, serum, having a force capable of driving great engines and drawing long, heavy freight trains, and just as the latest energy residing in gasoline may be transformed by infinitesimal sparks into an explosive gas having a force capable of propelling automobiles, airplanes and submarines at a wonderful speed, so the latent energy in the blood seems by the injection of a few drops of the serum directly into the veins, to be converted into "antidotes" which manifest their power and activity in a thousand ways, and in an amount out of all proportion to the tiny spark of substance that inaugurated their activity or set them on fire.

An interesting fact about this serum is that it cannot be made by the wholesale and sold as a patent medicine, because the patient's own blood must be used in making it. It is created on the basic principle that "like cures like," and the serum must be prepared individually for every patient.

In acute bacterial diseases it is now considered good practice the world over to secure when possible some of the germs causing the disease, and then inject them, after being killed by heat and suspended in a solution, into the patient whose life the disease has caused. Doctor Rogers affirms that when he uses as a basis for his serum the blood of a patient suffering from a chronic complaint he undoubtedly collects some of these imperfect cells which are causing the disease.

AMERICAN ADVENTURER IS GREAT DISCOVERER

One of the great American adventurers died recently. He was Col. Charles Chaille-Long, and his death received the same sententious notice that had awarded so many of his achievements during his lifetime. Soldier, explorer, diplomatist and explorer, he lived his seventy-five years as thoroughly as any man of his time. He knew four continents and he solved a riddle that had puzzled mankind for many years—the source of the Nile river.

As a youth, Chaille-Long fought with distinction in the Civil war, says the Kansas City Times. He entered as a private and came out a lieutenant colonel. Then he figured in a chapter of our history that is little known to the present generation—our military mission to Egypt. Khedive Ismail wanted to recognize his army and he wanted the word done by men who would be free from the petty interests and intrigues of the various European countries, all of which were interested in northern Africa. The khedive obtained the co-operation of General Sherman, and in 1880 ten American officers—half of them Federalists and half former Confederate commanders—were sent to Egypt. Chaille-Long was one of the party, and he became the widest known for his work in Africa. Some of the others of the party were Generals Loring, Libby and Stone, and Majors Morgan and Kenyon.

Found Lake Ibrahim. Chaille-Long came under the influence of the famous "Chinese" Gordon, then commanding in the Sudan. Gordon planned the fortifications of Tel-el-Khadr for the defense of Cairo, and Gordon induced the American to explore the upper Nile. In two shallops constructed of tough bark Chaille-Long and two companions continued along the river until they found Lake Ibrahim, now known as Lake Choga. They found the bones of the lake rind with the great loaves, whose leaves were strong enough to support the body of a child. The party discovered that the river issuing from the Victoria Nyanza is the Nile, thus settling a question that long had troubled geographers.

On this trip Chaille-Long and his two companions, both Egyptian officers, were attacked by a force of several hundred natives. The explorers carried sheet-iron traveling cases, and barricaded in these they stood off the attacking force for hours, killing more than 30 of the natives. Chaille-Long led several expeditions into Africa, conquering the Niam-Niam country and adding it to Egypt, and exploring a long stretch of the East coast of Africa that hitherto had been unknown to civilization.

Called Back to Egypt. His health failing under the incessant hardships to which he had been subjected, Chaille-Long came back to this country in 1877 and studied law. He became an authority on international law, afterward teaching for a time in Paris. But at the time of the Sudanese uprising in 1881 he was besought by the American government to go back to Egypt and take charge of the consulate at Alexandria, from which all the other Americans had fled. He saved hundreds of lives during those troublous times, the consulate being made a refuge for all nationalists.

In 1887 Cleveland appointed Chaille-Long consul general and secretary of the legation in Cairo. The man's restless energy again manifested itself in exploration and he made an overland trip to Seoul, discovering on the way the source of the Han river. Egypt called him again in 1890 and he spent eight years there, writing and exploring.

The honors that had been tardy in their coming began to be showered upon him then. Great Britain finally recognized his share in the uncovering of the secrets of the Nile and gave him equal rank with Speke and Baker. The American Geographical society gave him a gold medal, and he was made secretary for the Universal Postal congress at Washington and later secretary to the United States commission at the Paris exposition, 1900.

Chaille-Long wrote a number of books dealing with the lands he had explored, they were translations of the little-known regions of the world, but they brought him little revenue. Though half a dozen nations honored him with medals and titles, he died a comparatively poor man. His only reward of any consequence was the tribute paid him by "Chinese" Gordon, another of the great adventurers: "This man deserves to rank with the world's chief discoverers."

Young Dubleigh says he makes quite a bit of money from his writings. "So, didn't know he had any literary inclinations."

"He hasn't. What he writes is home to father."

"Not many people can overcome a difficulty like the Revolutionary hero."

"He leaped into a hole to get out of one."

"Pa, what is a shattered idol?" asked the human question mark.

"A fellow who's so shattered he ever happens to catch her at home on Monday morning helping her mother wash," said pa, with his wonderful wisdom.

Irene's Little Adventure

By Katharine Howe

(Copyright, 1917, by W. G. Chapman)

"Mother I never want to go anywhere."

The other woman regarded her rebellions, but undeniably pretty—offspring on the other side of the table—with a look of mild forbearance. She was not yet very old, and had not forgotten her own youth. But there were firm lines about her mouth which indicated that her advice was meant to be followed.

"Don't," she said gently, "if you will think that over a minute, you will see you are wrong."

"Well," persisted the girl, "it comes so near to being never I don't see much difference."

"I wish," sighed Mrs. Folsom, "I could give you more good times, but you know your mother won't allow me to go much in society, where I would like to go for your sake."

"Yes, I know," said Irene with some contrition, "but if you weren't so fatal about whom I went with—there isn't a girl's mother in town as particular as you."

"Perhaps I am a bit old-fashioned. But it seems to me a custom more honored in the observance than the breach."

"Yes, but if you didn't want a carefully compiled history of everybody I speak to."

"Now Irene, let us get down to facts. I simply don't want you to go to places with young girls or men that I don't know anything about. I want to save you from possibly unhappy experiences. Perhaps I am all wrong in trying to save you. Perhaps I ought to let you have the bitter experience, so that you will learn from them. I know you will have them after awhile, but you will be older, and better able to face them. So many terrible things are happening these days. Sometimes when young girls go off with strange men, they never come back."

"Yes, mummy, I know," coaxed the girl. "But Mr. Garston isn't a strange man, is he?"

"Yes, just twice, and I didn't like him."

"That's because you're so wrapped up in Jerry Carver."

"Well aren't you?" smilingly asked the mother.

"Of course I—I like Jerry, but he isn't take me out much as he'd like to. He can't afford it. I haven't been in an automobile in six months, and now when Mr. Garston wants to take me for a little spin, you don't want me to go."

"No," answered her mother, "decidedly I don't. Who knows anything about him. He's been in this town just about two weeks."

"Well, everybody likes him, and I met him at Bossie's house."

"Does she know anything about him?"

"I didn't ask about his past history. If he was her friend I thought that was enough."

"It ought to be enough," responded her mother. "But in this place it doesn't seem to be."

"Well," said Irene looking at her wrist watch, "I suppose it's time for me to go downstairs for these things."

Irene now never consulted the clock, since her birthday present had come from her uncle. It was a beautiful little gold wrist watch, set around with diamonds and the mother had exclaimed just a trifle reproachfully when it came: "Oh, if Uncle Albert had just sent a check for that amount, it would have bought your clothes for two years. It must have cost two or three hundred dollars."

But when she saw the girl's delight in wearing it she remembered her own pleasure in her first watch, and said no more.

That evening Jerry Carver called. He was a wholesome, hard-working young fellow with the refinement and good breeding which appealed especially to the mother, and it was plain he was deeply in love with Irene. Mrs. Folsom asked him if he knew anything about Gerald Garston.

"No," he answered. "I don't think anyone does, except that he stops at the hotel, and is pretty much of a high-flyer. I don't suppose they'll let him stay much beyond two weeks, if he doesn't get his bill."

"How do you know he doesn't pay his bill?" flashed Irene with evident resentment.

"I don't know," he answered quietly, but her look and manner stabbed him to the heart.

With everyone, that's no reason why anybody should say such things."

"No," he answered, "I don't think I'd better say any more."

"I think not," she responded lightly. The constraint of the silence that followed was broken by the young man rising, and taking his leave.

"I think," said Mrs. Folsom, "Jerry knew more than he would say."

"I think," said Irene, "it was just mean contemptible jealousy. I didn't think he'd be so mean."

Irene walking toward the post office into the next afternoon saw Gerald Garston passing in an automobile. He saw her at the same moment, and being at the wheel, immediately stopped the machine. He was alone, and begged her to come with him for a little spin.

She objected that she must be home in about an hour, but he said she need not stay an hour if she did not wish. The temptation was too much for the girl, and she got in. About half a mile further, in the outskirts of the town, he halted the car before a small house, and exclaiming himself, went in. He was not gone more than two minutes when he returned, and they went on. They bowled along a pretty country road, Garston's manner was respectfully polite, and Irene was enjoying it to the full. After a while she began to realize that he must get her home in time. His promises, however, were speeded. After a minute or two, he looked behind, uttered an exclamation, and said: "A cop's coming! Speeding I suppose!"

Here the man behind pulled a warning, and Garston halted the machine. The policeman came up on his wheel, put Garston under arrest, and told him to drive on to headquarters, which was half a mile away, and he would keep with him. Garston, followed by the policeman, went in. After a few minutes Garston came out, worried and embarrassed. He was fined fifty dollars, he hadn't more than five in his pocket, and the prospects were they would both have to spend the night in the station.

"Oh, but my mother!" cried Irene. "Oh, but my mother!" cried Irene. "Oh, but my mother!" cried Irene. "Oh, but my mother!" cried Irene.

Nearly crazed, Irene took the lawless driving from her wrist, and begged him to leave it till he could pay her the next day. He took it, and soon they were on their homeward way. Irene anxiously waited for the return of the watch. The second day she telephoned the hotel, but Mr. Garston had left. Then she called up police headquarters at Boston, but they had never heard of a watch or a man named Garston. It was a very serious matter. The policeman was simply disguised confidence, and the building not "headquarters." The watch was never recovered, and poor Irene had to confess to her mother, and acknowledge that in nine cases out of ten, a girl would believe her mother's advice. Whether or not she followed it in regard to Jerry, the wedding cards were out in about three months.

But Times Have Changed. Vassar college, the pioneer American institution for the higher education of women, was founded by Matthew Vassar, a wealthy Poughkeepsie brewer. Having accumulated a fortune, Vassar decided to devote the greater part of his wealth to the establishment of some public institution. His wish, at the suggestion of his niece, Miss Booth, a successful teacher of girls, that he was induced to found a college for young women, for which he gave $400,000 in 1861, and other sums aggregating as much more before his death and by bequest. When Vassar was opened, the institution was denounced by many women and numerous clergymen, who proved to their own satisfaction that a college for women was an insult to God! One prominent woman said: "Of one thing we may be sure—no refined Christian mother will ever send her daughters to Vassar college! The mere fact that it is called a 'college' for women is enough to condemn it!"

Legends of Polar North. The polar North is filled with weird imaginative legends, but perhaps the most imaginative is the theory of the north Greenlanders recently studied by European ethnologists, concerning the controlling power of the universe. They believe, is a woman, known as the Old Woman of the Sea. According to Karby Burr Alexander, "once she was a mortal woman; a petted woman with entrancing song and carried her to his home beyond the sea. When her relatives tried to rescue her she said such a story and by so doing she had her soul saved."

She attempted to cling to the boat, but they cut her hand from the boat to the bottom, her several fingers being transformed into whales and seals of the several kinds. In her house in the depths of the sea Nerivik dwells, tripping her lamp, guarded by a terrible dog, and ruling over the animal life of the deep."

Corn Saved Pilgrim Fathers. Had it not been for the Indian corn our Pilgrim Fathers of Plymouth and our Cavalier forebears of Jamestown would have perished from famine. They were saved from "The Starving Time" by the Indian corn which the redskins had stored for the winter. Indeed, the settlers wanted that corn so much that they introduced the hitherto unknown vice of theft among the Indians. They stole from the caches and cribs, a practice of which, to quote Capt. John Smith, "the Indians grieved. Civilization came to its own on this continent through corn not only in the East but in the West, for the journal of the Lewis and Clarke expedition shows that those intrepid explorers would have died for lack of food had it not been for the parched maize they obtained from the first Americans."

Few Convicts Sent to America. Virginia was the only colony which ever received convicts, and very few were sent there, and most of those sent were political prisoners; the aristocratic element predominated. In 1870 parliament forbade the transportation of convicts to English colonies in America.

His Case. "The itinerant musician yonder is in grinding need. Not of food?" "No; of new airs on his hand organ."

Christening a Nation. Anxious to enlarge the limited vocabulary of the children, a teacher asked what name was given to men who are in love with Irene. Mrs. Folsom asked him if he knew anything about Gerald Garston.

"No," he answered. "I don't think anyone does, except that he stops at the hotel, and is pretty much of a high-flyer. I don't suppose they'll let him stay much beyond two weeks, if he doesn't get his bill."

"How do you know he doesn't pay his bill?" flashed Irene with evident resentment.

"I don't know," he answered quietly, but her look and manner stabbed him to the heart.

"Because Mr. Garston is popular length the eagerness of a high-spirited boy indicated that he thought he had a better word. It was "Manchus!"

Psalmist Ancient Band Instrument. Among the instruments of the band which played before Nebuchadnezzar's golden image on the plains of Dur was the psalmist, a stringed instrument.

Thomas Estrada Palma was the first president of the Cuban republic, and was inaugurated on May 20, 1902.

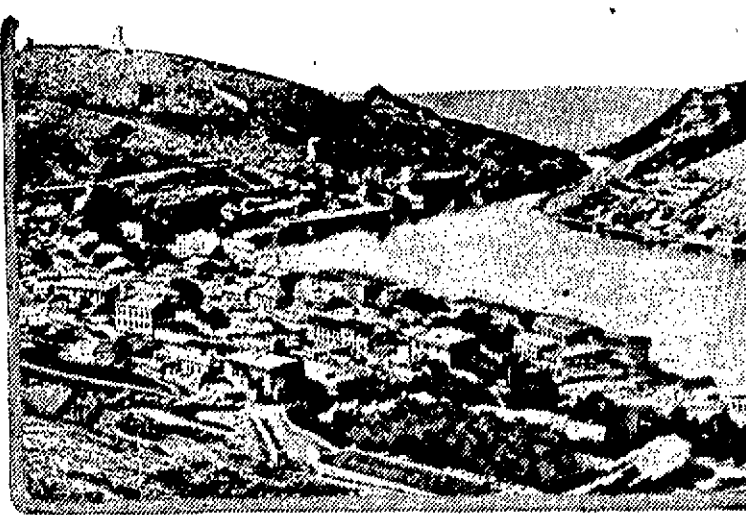

Will Neglect Trees. Isn't it strange that those who never neglect a cow, or colt, or any other animal will pay a big price for a fruit tree, stick it in the ground and never touch it again until it dies?

Early Cultivation of Corn. The best-informed farmers use first, last and all the time the face cultivator, the best-known and the most widely advertised. This means, over the ancient methods, from one-tenth to one-fourth more corn in the coming crop.

Serious Consideration of Character of Cultivator Should Be Taken Before Plowing. After plowing the ground deep and planting expensive seed corn it is still important that the farmer give the most serious attention to the problem of proper cultivation.

Several weeks ahead of the time the corn is to be plowed serious consideration of the kind of cultivator should be taken. The best-informed farmers use first, last and all the time the face cultivator, the best-known and the most widely advertised. This means, over the ancient methods, from one-tenth to one-fourth more corn in the coming crop.

The Wonderful Crimea

SALAKOVA

WHEN, after the war, passenger steamers ply between New York and the ports of the Black sea, it may well be hoped that Americans, for their own sake, will discover it and prize the wonderful Crimea. Probably most Americans, having forgotten the ancient history they once learned at school, have but few definite ideas connected with the name Crimea. There once was a war in the Crimea, for instance, involving a town which English-printing newspapers and others carefully misnamed "Sébastopol." Also, it is remembered, there was Balaklava, and the charge that was "magnificent, but not war." And also, there was Florence Nightingale. All of these were, and some still are, notable.

But there is much more than all these to the Crimea, says a writer in the magazine "The Atlantic," and suggests nothing whatever of the beautiful and extraordinary south coast stretch of the peninsula; nothing of its luxuriant and semi-tropical vegetation rising upon the steep heights which fringe the shore; nothing of the summer pastures in the high valleys—pastures as notable as the much better known alpine of the Swiss Alps, which these grazing places for sheep closely resemble. Nor do we few American modern memories suggest the fact that the Crimea was one of the melting-pots of classical antiquity—not in the center of the ancient world, it is true—but the scene of some of the most important events of antiquity. The Crimea was the scene of the wars of Alexander the Great, of the wars of the Crusades, of the wars of the Russian empire, and of the wars of the American empire.

Why the "Black" Sea. From the moment his ship enters the Black sea, the American explorer will find himself in a region of waters of a kind not to him. The Black sea is not actually black, but it is of a much darker blue than the Mediterranean. It is practically without tides, also—a great deep bowl with steep sides, with water some 4,500 feet deep close to the sides, and over 7,000 in the middle. LEAVES OF THE EUCALYPTUS Eucalypts are evergreens which shed their bark, but not their leaves. But they are not shade trees. The leaves are placed in horizontal position, and the passage of light is but little obstructed. For this reason smaller trees and bushes and grass grow underneath, and the woods in places assume the appearance of a jungle from which arise the towering shafts of trees. It is interesting to note that primitive types of eucalypts as well as the young of more modern types have horizontal leaves, pointing to a time in the geologic past when the climate was more equatorial and no precautions to conserve moisture were taken.—National Geographic Magazine.

LEAVES OF THE EUCALYPTUS

Eucalypts are evergreens which shed their bark but not their leaves. They are not shade trees. The leaves are placed in inclined rather than in horizontal position, and the passage of light is but little obstructed. For this reason smaller trees and bushes and grass grow underneath, and the woods in places assume the appearance of a jungle. It is interesting to note that primitive types of eucalypts as well as the young of more modern types have horizontal leaves, pointing to a time in the geologic past when the climate was more equatorial and no precautions to conserve moisture were taken.—National Geographic Magazine.
